Two charged over hall fire

Haverhill duo before magistrates today

TWO Haverhill men have been charged with starting the fire which destroyed one of the region's most popular wedding venues.

Mark Hall, 27, and Thomas Richardson, 26, have both been charged with two counts of arson with intent to endanger life following the devastating blaze at Chilford Hall in Linton yesterday.

The pair, both of Pipers Close, Haverhill, were due to appear at Cambridge Magistrates' Court this morning.

Management at Chilford have scrambled to secure marquees so they can fulfil bookings after flames caused damage running into hundreds of thousands of pounds in the early hours of yesterday.

Their efforts mean tomorrow's wedding of Emma Farr and Greg Smith from Cherry Hinton can still go ahead.

Smoke could be seen as far away as Girton as 60 firefighters battled 50ft flames engulfing the wooden and brick barns, some of which date to the 1700s.

Firefighters managed to save the main house, wine store and shop, but the 18th century Linton Barn and the Grade II-listed Great Hall, which dates to 1820, were lost, as were the adjoining Pavilion and Gallery.

Simon Alper, a member of the family which has transformed Chilford Hall since acquiring it 1965, said he was "devastated" by yesterday's events.

He said: "There's a building in the middle which is made of wood and you have a very short space of time to get to it if it catches fire, so in the middle of the night it caught hold."

"The fire brigade have been brilliant to save the winery and study centre."

Mr Alper said the buildings would be hard to replace, and that cherished family heirlooms had been lost in the flames.

He said: "We are getting on the phone talking to clients and sorting out whatever we can for them."

"That's the business we're in, of looking after people – although we've had this devastating fire, we still have to look after them. We're so sorry for them, we'll do whatever we can."

Steve Elve, station manager at Linton fire station, said crews could remain at the scene today to damp down the ruins. He added: "It's a business everyone knows and is locally proud of, so to see it lost this way will be devastating for the area."

"We hope we have managed to salvage some of the operation for them to continue trading."

Housing group praised for supporting its staff

A HOUSING group's culture of involvement and consultation with its staff has led to the presentation of an Investors in People (IiP) award.

Havebury Housing, which manages more than 6,000 homes in Haverhill, Bury St Edmunds and surrounding villages, has achieved the bronze award after meeting 30 of the 33 requirements necessary.

The partnership was reviewed on several elements including equality of opportunity and management support.

In her report, the IiP judge praised Havebury for its "very positive" support for learning and development and its "supportive management style alongside flexible working (which) is greatly appreciated by everyone".

The report said: "People feel valued for their contribution through managers and senior managers thanking them for good performance, listening to their ideas for improvement... having their strengths utilised and having interesting and challenging work."

Chief executive Karen Mayhew said: "We were extremely pleased to receive such a good response from the Investors in People judge. We have been told that we have great potential to meet the criteria of the Silver award in the future.

"As a housing association we are a people business, firmly committed to our team members as well as our tenants. As a result, we have a low staff turnover which means that our 6,000 tenants can be assured of a consistent, high-quality service."

Brothers bask in Hammers' glory

WEST Ham fans and property company owners Daniel and Robin Pilley helped celebrate the club's promotion to the Premier League at a gala dinner.

The brothers, who own CXG Property Services in Haverhill, were invited to the West Ham gala dinner as guests of club vice-chairman Karren Brady, who has followed the progress of the property company.

Robin Pilley said: "It was a fantastic event - West Ham had a very successful year ending with a brilliant achievement at Wembley Stadium, a 2-1 victory over Blackpool at the play-off final.

"It is estimated that the financial windfall could be as much as £90m for the Hammers, which has put a smile on the faces of owners David Sullivan and David Gold.

"CXG has also had a successful year and it was great to reflect upon this in the company of the owners and directors of West Ham. I hope that both organisations can continue to progress."

Ex-mayor fights for health centre staff

BY JO DEEKS

FIGHT FOR HAVERHILL HEALTH SERVICES

FORMER Haverhill mayor Cllr Maureen Byrne is taking the lead for the town council in the joint campaign with the Weekly News for better health facilities in the town.

So far, 3,445 people have signed the petition, which calls for adequate provision to be made to replace the town's walk-in Crown Health Centre, which closes at the end of July.

Almost 1,000 registered patients will have to find another doctor and 22,500 walk-in patients who have attended the clinic since it opened almost three years ago will have to go elsewhere.

Cllr Byrne, pictured, who has been a leading trade union official for many years, is representing the interests of the 10 staff at the centre who will lose their jobs, to make sure that they receive their full entitlements in redundancy and severance payments.

Cllr Byrne said: "They are a tremendous group of people and whoever employs them in future, they will be an asset to any organisation.

"Everyone who has signed the petition has told us how decently and respectfully they have been treated at the centre. The practice organisation is very disappointed with the way that they became aware that the contract was being pulled and they are trying to do the best for their employees.

"As far as I am concerned, the campaign will continue. This is not about the retention of the health centre, it is about retaining the health centre in Haverhill until we are absolutely certain that the arrangements provided in the town are similar and adequate for our growing community. They had more than 100 people down there over the weekend - it is just a great demand.

"I am concerned for everybody, but especially for parents of young children, who have found it an absolute Godsend for evenings and weekends.

"If you have got transport, you can get to a hospital A&E but if not you have to rely on the out-of-hours service, which people tell us is unreliable and they have no confidence whatever in it.

"You have to speak to at least three people before you are even told if you can see a doctor."

Cllr Byrne added: "They are saving £1.2m a year and I want to see a substantial amount of that money reinvested in Haverhill, to give us the healthcare we deserve."

MP Matthew Hancock will be meeting representatives from the town's three GP practices tomorrow afternoon to discuss the future of primary care in the town.

The petition can be signed at Haverhill Arts Centre, Christmas Maltings surgery, the Weekly News office in Queen Street or online at www.haverhillweeklynews.co.uk.

■ Meanwhile, the new West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group is hosting a conference to get patients' views on Wednesday, July 18. The 'Best of Health for West Suffolk' event is at the Apex in Bury St Edmunds from 9.30am-1pm.

To attend, complete the online registration form at www.westsuffolkcommissioning.co.uk/CCGininvite, e-mail rachel.seago@suffolkpct.nhs.uk or phone (01284) 774796.

Four causes to benefit from charity beer festival

A CHARITY beer festival is taking place at a country pub, with a weekend of entertainment and four groups to benefit.

The BIG Little Charity Beer Festival is coming to the Horse and Groom at Cornish Hall End, over the weekend of July 13, 14 and 15, with live music, plenty of entertainment acts, food and an array of traditional British beers and ciders.

Publican Kelly Bishop said: "We host our biannual July festival to raise money for different chosen charities that we believe do such a great job and deserve recognition and donations. The four charities being supported at this year's festival are CRY (Cardiac Risk in the Young) because of the sudden loss of a close family member due to an incredibly rare heart condition, Diabetes UK, The Royal Brompton Hospital PICU as they provide life changing support for a local little boy and the Herts and Essex Air Ambulance, because without their support accessibility to rural areas in the event of an accident to provide help would be extremely difficult."

'a case of mistaken identity'

Shock at armed police raid

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A STARTLED group of Polish workers were held up at gunpoint after armed police stormed the wrong house in search of a shotgun.

Armed officers surrounded the property on Sunday night after a resident reported hearing a shotgun being fired in the area.

The group, who were enjoying drinks in the garden, spoke of their shock at being hauled out of the house at gunpoint and made to lie on the ground with their hands behind their backs.

Police searched the property in Edén Road, Haverhill, but no weapon was found and the force has since admitted it was a case of mistaken identity.

Lukasz Zuk, who lives at the house, spoke of his shame at being escorted from the property by armed police in the full gaze of neighbours.

He said: "We were just having a good time, sitting in the garden having a few drinks. We saw the helicopter flying over, but we did not know what was happening.

"Then my friend left and they pointed a gun at him and told him to lie on the ground and put his hands behind his back. Then they shouted for everyone to come out one at a time from the garden.

"The policeman told us that they know it was not us, but we feel very ashamed because everyone in the street was outside. People were taking pictures and we are on Facebook, but we want people to know that we have not done anything wrong."

Housemate Caroline Stawujak said: "The policeman was pointing the gun at my head. I was supposed to go to work today, but I did not feel very well after this.

"I am really ashamed because everyone knows about it and thinks there was a gun here, but it was just a mistake. Someone had told the police they saw someone with a gun run into this house, but we did not see anyone with a gun at all."

A nearby resident, who asked not to be named, said: "The first thing we knew was the helicopter going round and round, then three police cars outside and five or six officers with guns out. They had one man lying on the ground and they put handcuffs on him, then the others were led out one by one."

A police spokesman said: "We think it probably was a case of mistaken identity. We don't think they were involved and we did not find any firearms. We are still investigating the incident and if anyone has any information about it we would ask them to get in touch with us."

Insp Peter Ferrie, Haverhill's sector commander, said armed response units were sent to Haverhill from Ipswich and Bury St Edmunds, following a report from a security guard that he had seen a group with a gun in the area of the Duddery Hill allotments and that a shot had been fired. Crew on the police helicopter had seen someone going from that area towards Edén Road, where the property was surrounded and searched.

He said: "Firearms officers were called, an address was contained and several people were searched. No trace what ever was found of a firearm and no one else in the area is believed to have seen or heard a firearm discharged. We cannot be sure if this was a genuine incident.

"I would like to reassure people in Haverhill that firearms incidents will always be dealt with as a greatest priority. We have trained firearms officers who can arrive in Haverhill very quickly to deal with any genuine incident."

Girl Guides need your help and skills

MORE helpers – and people to pass on their skills – are needed so more youngsters can become Girl Guides. The Girl Guiding Haverhill District needs people with specific skills that they could teach, knowledge of accounting or those who want to gain experience of working with children. Sarah Sprigg, assistant leader of 4th Haverhill Brownies, said: "We have lots of girls currently involved and more waiting to join but we need more people to help even on a one-off or rota basis. "It could be a one-night visit to teach a unit how to dance or make something, giving the current leaders more time in looking after the unit accounts or helping a unit on a rota or regular bases. Girl guiding has a flexible approach with volunteers and can help you to develop your skills that will look great on your CV, including leadership, team-working and communication. "You can help to make a real difference to the lives of today's girls and young women, while making new friends all you need is enthusiasm, common sense, a friendly approach." Anyone interested should call Jill Moss on (01440) 706074.

Witness appeal after crash on the A143

WITNESSES are sought to a collision which blocked a main road for several hours. Suffolk Police are appealing for witnesses to the collision on the A143 between Horringer and Haverhill on Wednesday, June 6. Officers were called at 5.55pm. A blue Ford Fiesta had left the road and ended up in a ditch, with a black Honda Accord left blocking the road. The driver of the Fiesta was taken to Addenbrooke's hospital but their injuries were not serious. Traffic was diverted until 10.30pm. Police would like to hear from anyone who might have witnessed the collision. Calls can be made to PC Adam Haylock on 101.

Console and games stolen in burglary

A GAMES console and games were stolen during a daytime burglary. A house in Clements Lane, Haverhill, was entered between 10.30am and 6pm on Wednesday, June 6. One of the rooms inside was searched and an Xbox 360 games console and games were stolen. Anyone who noticed any unusual activity in the area or who has any information about the burglary should contact Suffolk Police on 101.

JUBILEE spirit was still lingering as residents on a housing estate got together.
Local residents enjoyed a Jubilee big picnic at the open space at Chalkstone Community Centre in Haverhill last Thursday.
Cllr Anne Gower, St Edmundsbury Borough Council cabinet member for Haverhill, said the picnic built on the success of last year's event and families had enjoyed a great day out celebrating the occasion.

Attractions included a huge inflatable slide, a four-in-one mobile bungee trampoline, a "chair-o-plane" ride and a trailer trampoline, as well as entertainment provided by a magician and activities including craft, sport and face-painting.
The event was organised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council and supported by the Chalkstone Estate residents' associations, Havebury Housing Partnership, Abbeycroft Leisure, the Safer Neighbourhood Team, Children's Centre, the fire service and Tesco.

Guides see life from wheelchair

TWO teenagers spent the weekend in wheelchairs to see how accessible their home town is and to raise money for charity.

Ranger Guides Natalie Moss and Shannon Tobin, both 14, set out from the foyer of Sainsbury's in Haverhill last Friday morning and travelled around town until Saturday night in self-propelled wheelchairs.

They found people helpful and most shops easy to get around but gripes included broken lifts and kerbs.

Natalie's mum Jill said: "They became stuck on some kerbs, but generally it was a positive experience". Both girls are pupils at Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill and belong to the same Guide group in the town.

They were collecting donations along the way for the Duchene Muscular Dystrophy charity, a cause close to Natalie's heart as her two cousins suffer from the condition.

The girls also earned a guiding badge for doing the challenge.

Seven down! Mike is a super slimmer

CP

MIKE Austin is living proof that slimming clubs are not just for women after shedding a massive seven stones.

Mike, 41, only joined his local Slimming World class last November, but has already been named as the group's Man of the Year for 2012 and could go on to compete for regional and national titles.

Mike said: "I hated being overweight and I did try to do something about it and watch what I ate but I'd never lose much weight—if any.

"I'd always thought that slimming groups were just for women, but it was clear 'going it alone' didn't work for me and I needed some extra motivation. So when other members of my family were doing well at Slimming World I decided to give it a go and it was the best decision I could have made."

"The great thing is you don't go hungry. It's about healthy eating – and man-sized portions of healthy food too – not fads and gimmicks. Now I cook for the family and make our favourite meals in a low-fat way, so we can still have curries and Chinese dishes, and roast dinners.

BY JO DEEKS

"I can honestly say I feel like a different man since losing weight.

"Slimming World encourages you to boost your weight loss, get fitter and keep the weight off in the long run by being more active. I started cycling and sometimes cycle 180 miles during the course of a week."

Tania Watson, who runs the Wednesday Slimming World group at the Newcroft, Haverhill, which Mike attends, said she was incredibly proud of him.

She added: "Mike is proof that men can benefit from the support to eat more healthily and get more active as much as women. He's a real inspiration.

"Lots of men have joined the group after hearing about Mike's success and I just hope that when other men read his story they'll come, especially now they know they won't be the only man here.

"It's really important because the obesity crisis doesn't just affect women – in fact there are more overweight men than women in Britain."

Now Mike could go through to the semi-finals of the national Slimming World Man of the Year 2012 competition in July. The ultimate winner will take home a seven-night luxury holiday in Cuba or £3,000 cash.

Research done for Slimming World showed that one in four men are unhappy about their weight and two thirds of them want to lose weight.

For more information or to join Slimming World, call Tania on (01440) 706143 or visit www.slimmingworld.com.

Help is at hand

A HOT cup of tea and some practical advice for families forced out of their homes by fire or flood will be offered by a new emergency vehicle.

The Red Cross Fire Emergency Support Vehicle is now based at Haverhill Fire Station. It will be used support families who have to abandon their homes for various reasons.

It will offer shelter, food and clothing where necessary, as well as practical help with contact numbers for insurance companies, doctors, councils and other services.

Haverhill Town Council donated £700 towards equipping the vehicle and new mayor Pat Hanlon went along to its official launch. Mayor of St Edmundsbury Cllr Tim Marks funded a satellite navigation system for the vehicle.

Volunteer James Furlong said further donations were needed to help equip and maintain the vehicle, as well as more volunteers to help man it.

He said: "People are often very distressed in these situations. They may have had to leave their home, dressed only in their nightclothes, in the middle of the night.

"We are there to help meet their requirements, to give them a place to sit down and someone to talk to. People are often traumatised by what has happened and their heads are all over the place. We can offer them comfort and support.

"For some people the first thing they worry about is their pets and Steve Martin of Petco has donated two dog bowls and a lead, which will be very useful.

"We never know when we will be needed and we rely on donations from the public to equip and maintain the vehicle, as well as volunteers who can drive and man it."

Anyone wanting to help can donate at the Red Cross headquarters in Camps Road, Haverhill, phone (01440) 706760 or visit www.redcross.org.uk.

German trip: Haverhill Town Twinning Association Elaine McManus and husband Paul in Ehringshausen. CP

Our 30 years of friendship

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THREE decades of twinning between Haverhill and a German town are being celebrated this year.

A group from Haverhill, including former mayor and now town twinning group chairman Elaine McManus, visited German twin town Ehringshausen to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the link.

Elaine sent apologies from new Haverhill mayor Cllr Pat Hanlon, who was unable to join the trip, and told residents of the German town of Haverhill's three special celebrations this year for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, the visit of the Olympic Torch and the 30th anniversary of town twinning with Ehringshausen.

She also thanked the founder members, some of who were present, for their part in the 30-year friendship.

Elaine presented her opposite number Martin Neuhof, and burgermeister (mayor) Jürgen Mock with a CB9 2012 flag as a memento of 2012 from Haverhill Town Council and Haverhill Town Twinning Association.

The association aims to promote friendship and understanding between different European countries.

Elaine said: "Through exchange visits we learn about other cultures and a programme of entertainment provides trips to local places of interest.

"It can also be an opportunity to learn the basis of another language.

"Over the years the association has forged many friendships and introduced members' children and grandchildren to other ways of life, with our inexpensive visits."

The HTTA organise frequent social events for members, including themed meals, quiz nights and other social activities.

Anyone interested in finding out more about our association should phone (01440) 761018.

Rosemary Conley team on mission

MEMBERS of a diet and fitness club will be running into the night and hoping to match the massive sum of £15,000 which they raised for a cancer charity last year.

A team of 60 members of the Rosemary Conley classes run by Karen Perkins in Haverhill, Castle Hedingham and Newmarket will take part in the Relay for Life event at Ickworth Park on Saturday, June 23.

Last year the club won the trophy for raising the most money at the event for Cancer Research UK, and members immediately began collecting bags of unwanted clothes, toys, books CDs and other items to sell towards this year's total.

Club members have also raised thousands of pounds over the years by taking part in the Race for Life, but the Relay for Life event involves keeping a member of their team on the course from noon to midnight.

Entry to the park is free on the day for a Fun Day and the group will be manning 10 stalls selling all manner of goods, as well as games. There will also be entertainment on the day from noon, including music from Stowmarket Concert Band, Eureka Stockade, the Voice Squad and others, plus displays by Green Dragon Morris Dancers and Bury Spectrum Gymnastic Club.

Shirley Erskine, who has been storing bags of donations for the Haverhill club, said: "We have got loads of stuff to sell and it is a really good event for families to go to. If everybody gives just a little it really adds up. We want to say a big thank-you to Haverhill Electrical and Paragon Signs, who donated to big banners to let people know it is happening."

Terror as power cables explode

BY RAYMOND BROWN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

EXPLODING power lines in Haverhill town centre left residents terrified as the cables went up "like a fireworks display".

This dramatic picture shows a moment during a series of blasts which rocked the town last Thursday.

A tree was split by high winds and landed on the Rose and Crown pub and hotel and on power cables.

The incident happened in Withersfield Road at the corner of Broad Street, forcing the emergency services to close the key route as vehicles came to an abrupt stop.

A ball of fire ran along the cable past a row of shops and sparks flew onto the street as shoppers and motorists moved away to avoid being hit.

Richard Murray, who owns Photos4Prints in the street, said: "I heard these explosions and loud bangs and ran out of the shop. I could see this ball of fire and flames and sparks literally run along the cable.

Like fireworks: a power cable explodes in a shower of sparks.

"It was like something you see in a movie. It was absolutely incredible. You could actually see it running along the line."

"The cables over the street were sparking up like a massive fireworks display. The girl in the shop next door nearly jumped out of her skin. It was unbelievable. I have never seen anything like it. People were really terrified."

"All the cars and lorries came to a stop as the sparks flew down onto the road. A tree in the Rose and Crown car park had split and the branches went onto the pub and took out the power line."

Ambulance crews, the fire service and Suffolk police were called to the incident at 10.10am and shut the road to traffic.

A police spokesman said: "We were called to reports that power cables were exploding near the Methodist church at the corner of Broad Street and officers arrived soon after the call."

"We closed the road for the safety of the public. The power lines did not fall on to the road. The electricity company has been called and fire crews were at the scene."

EDF Energy engineers were called in to make the cables safe.

My busy year is already under way

MAYOR'S VIEW

by Cllr Pat Hanlon, mayor of Haverhill

WHAT an honour it is to be your Haverhill Mayor, especially this year with the recent Jubilee celebrations and the biggest event the town has ever had – the Olympic Torch Relay.

I hope you will agree that Haverhill Town Council has produced the best display in the whole country, with the flags and bunting lining our streets to celebrate both occasions. Along with partners we will also be putting on a host of events to make it a summer to remember. Visit the Arts Centre for details, or see our website at www.haverhill-tc.gov.uk.

I want to take this opportunity to thank the outgoing mayor, Cllr Maureen Byrne, not only for putting Haverhill on the map by representing the town at events right across the region, but also for her attendance at a huge number of local events in Haverhill. It made her year a very busy one indeed! Her efforts are much appreciated by the whole town, and thankfully for us, her hard work will continue. Maureen is going to be very busy this year as well. She will be leading the town council in our campaign, with the Weekly News, for a better health services following the decision by NHS Suffolk to close our Crown Health walk-in centre (don't forget to sign the petition if you haven't already!), and she will be at the forefront of efforts to ensure that Suffolk County Council does not close or bring down the high standards of care at Place Court. As if that wasn't enough, she is also campaigning with the rest of the town councillors for improvements to the town centre.

Having been deputy mayor during Maureen's term as mayor, I do know the commitment needed to carry out the role. In my first few weeks I have already been to quite a few events, including the mayor-making ceremony in Bury St Edmunds, to see Cllr Tim Marks from Haverhill become the new borough mayor (see page 13). I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Cllr Marks on this great honour!

I have also been to the Felixstowe Civic Service, the service of thanksgiving celebrating the Queen's Diamond Jubilee at St Edmundsbury Cathedral, and the launch of the British Red Cross Fire and Emergency Support Service (FESS) in Haverhill. And the list goes on – the Stepping Stones annual sponsored walk, the Castle Partnership Jubilee celebration, the Plaza renaming ceremony, the start of works at the former Clements School site, the Twin Town Association's Picnic in the Park, and of course the Jubilee Beacon service at our own St Mary's Church. What a privilege it was – if also a little scary! – for me to light the beacon as part of a very successful Jubilee weekend in the town.

Despite the weather, some 4,000 people came along to the various events organised by the town council and its partners. It was such a shame that coverage of the celebrations was taken off the front pages by the fire at the former Castle Hill Middle School site, but our town did not let the mindless actions of the few detract from our enjoyment. I do hope that the perpetrators will be found and dealt with, and that the county council now makes the closed school sites a priority – as they should have been long ago.

So, lots to do as mayor, but what I see and hear when I'm out and about makes it more than worthwhile. Former mayors have remarked to me on the respect shown for Haverhill when visiting other towns, and I have now experienced this at first hand. People really do say what a marvellous sense of community there is here, and how well we all work together for the good of the town. And when I visit events in the town, it only serves to reinforce that view. Thank you to the many people who make Haverhill such a great town, and who work so hard to keep making it even better.

I am really looking forward to my year as mayor; it is going to be a very busy one and one I will enjoy.

Gold rush to boost hospice

UNWANTED and broken gold jewellery is needed to boost the funds of St Nicholas Hospice.

Haverhill residents are being asked to donate their gold this month, to raise funds for the hospice, which cares for people from across the area.

Some 6,000 'Going for Gold' envelopes will be delivered to homes in the town over the coming weeks, with recipients asked to fill them with any unwanted gold items – including odd earrings, watch links, necklace clasps and earring butterflies – and take to Griffith Jones Jewellers, in Haverhill High Street.

Griffith Jones will then convert all the donated gold into cash for the hospice.

The campaign was launched at the Griffith Jones shop in Haverhill last Thursday.

An additional 2,000 envelopes will be available from Genzyme, of Rookwood Way, Haverhill, and Griffith Jones.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The envelope campaign has been sponsored by Genzyme, which has covered all the costs, meaning 100 per cent of the funds raised will go to the hospice.

Griffith Jones has been converting gold into cash for the hospice since 2009 and has already raised almost £25,000. If every home in the town were to donate just one gram of gold in their envelope, the hospice would receive almost £50,000 from the scheme.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, said: "This is such an innovative way of fundraising and we are hoping the people of Haverhill have a spring clean and donate any unwanted bits of gold – however small.

"I would like to thank Genzyme for covering all of the costs associated with this campaign and Griffith Jones for making it possible."

Borough mayor calls for pride

Honour: Cllr Tim Marks is the first from Haverhill to be appointed St Edmundsbury mayor for 14 years.

IN just three weeks since becoming Mayor of St Edmundsbury, Cllr Tim Marks had already notched up a total of 34 engagements – including a trip to Germany the day after he took up the role.

Cllr Marks, 75, is the first borough mayor to be appointed from Haverhill for 14 years, since Mary Martin held the office. Despite a busy start and an even busier year ahead, including the visit by the Olympic torch to Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds, Cllr Marks is looking forward to it all.

He said: "We were at the dinner for the outgoing mayor at the Athenaeum until quite late, then up at 4am and leaving at 6am for a three-day trip to Germany, so it was a bit of a baptism of fire."

"We had a fantastic time in Kevlaer, which is Bury's twin town and a wonderful place. Then it was back for all the Jubilee weekend events and on Tuesday to the opening of the new Wetherspoons at the Corn Exchange in Bury St Edmunds.

"I am very pleased to be elected mayor, it is an honour in the extreme. I really want to keep St Edmundsbury in the forefront of Suffolk. There is a tendency for people in Ipswich to think that Suffolk begins and ends in Ipswich. We need to dispel that myth, to make St Edmundsbury stand out and shine."

"I also want to instil some civic pride into the people of Haverhill, which has been a difficult job in the past. Haverhill is the friendliest place we have lived in and it has improved tremendously."

"The cinema area has seen a £21m investment and now we are hoping to get the town centre sorted out. We have two outstanding schools, who manage to get a lot of the younger generation to have pride in what they do. I would like to see that in the town a lot more."

Cllr Marks has chosen the Reach

Centre in Haverhill – which operates the food and furniture bank, as well as providing free debt counselling and help with housing – and St Nicholas Hospice as his mayor's charities for his year of office. He is hoping for plenty of support from the town from fundraising events, donations, raffle prizes or other contributions.

Cllr Marks said: "I think Reach is doing a wonderful job and in the current economic depression demand for their services is going up and up. St Nicholas Hospice is a wonderful charity which offers help to people at the end of life and their families. It costs £10,000 a day to run and they rely entirely on voluntary donations."

Cllr Marks will be joined in his role by wife and mayoress Margaret, who for many years has been the co-ordinator for the town's First Responders scheme.

The couple moved to Haverhill 12 years ago, after retiring to the area when he retired from his job as an agronomist for a multi-national crop protection company developing safe pesticides.

'I said Sam can't die he's only four – but he did'

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: weeklies@cambridge-news.co.uk

SOMEONE said to us once that bereavement is like a scar," says Steve Clarke. "At first it's very raw, then time heals the scar as you go along. But it will always be there."

It's six years since Steve and his wife Rachel lost their eldest son, Sam, to meningitis. A healthy, happy child, he died within a few hours of becoming poorly. He had just turned 4.

"Sam was a really sweet boy. He liked his cars: he'd sit and play with them for hours, and he liked being outside, but he wasn't really 'rough-and-tumble'," says Rachel. "He was quiet, but quietly confident, and he always seemed older than he was. Just a really sweet little boy."

Early on a Thursday evening in January 2006, the family were at home in Great Sampford, near Saffron Walden, when Sam first showed hints of being unwell.

"He didn't want his tea, which was unusual

Steve and Rachel lost their eldest child to meningitis when he was just 4 years old. Six years on, they tell us why he is still at the heart of their family.

because he liked his food, and said he had a tummy ache," recalls Rachel. "He came and sat on my lap and had a cuddle, then he lay down on the sofa, and just seemed a bit tired and washed out – nothing you could put your finger on, really."

Rachel decided to put him to bed at the same time as his brothers: Toby, then nearly 3, and Ben, 8 months. "He was a little bit shivery by then, so I gave him some Calpol. I thought he might have flu, but I wasn't worried enough to phone a doctor."

"He went to sleep, and we kept popping in on him. He was a bit unsettled but he seemed OK."

The couple went to bed a little later, but at 11pm they were woken by Sam being sick. "It wasn't much, and it was just phlegmy, like he'd had a cough," says Rachel. "Then he said his legs hurt, but he'd been running around all day: he'd been out to the park and he'd been swimming the day before, so we thought it might just be that."

She tucked him up in bed with her while Steve went to sleep in Sam's bed, and they swapped over at midnight. Not long after, Steve noticed a small mark under Sam's left eye.

"It was a purplish red, not very big," recalls Steve. "He'd been holding a juice drink, so I thought he might have been lying on that."

"But then I lifted his top, and there was a small purplish mark on his chest. I called to Rachel, and a couple of seconds later I lifted it up again and there were four or five more."

When Rachel came in, Steve lifted Sam's top to show her: "and it was like someone had taken a paint brush and flicked it," says Rachel quietly. "It was that quick: his whole body was just covered."

"Steve's a policeman, he's really calm, so he said to me really calmly 'I think you should call an ambulance'."

But Rachel began to panic: "They say you have to do the glass test – you don't need to do the glass test. You see it, and you know what it is. After I phoned the ambulance I phoned my parents and said 'can you get over here now? Sam's got meningitis, we've got to go to hospital.'"

Meanwhile, trying to stay calm, Steve chatted to Sam to keep him awake. "I said 'count to five', and he counted to five, and I said 'can you count to 10?' And he said 'no, that's too tricky, Daddy'."

When the paramedics arrived, they gave Sam a large shot of penicillin and put him into the ambulance: Rachel went with him, while Steve followed in his car.

"It seemed to take forever to get to Addenbrooke's. I was holding his hand and telling him I loved him, and I just kept saying 'open your eyes, Sam'. I kept saying it over and over again, and he did – every time I said 'open your eyes, look at mummy', he did. But he seemed to be going downhill so fast."

"When we got to the little roundabout on the Addenbrooke's site, I'll never forget – he closed his eyes, I told him to open them. And he didn't."

At the doors of A and E, the crash team was waiting: Steve and Rachel followed them in, and stood back while the medics worked on Sam. After 45 minutes, the consultant came over to them.

"I wouldn't look at him," says Rachel. "I thought 'if I don't look at him he'll go away', but he didn't. So I looked at him, and he said 'there comes a time when we have to stop.' And I said 'well he can't die, he's 4!' But he did."

Numb with shock and disbelief, Rachel and Steve were told that they'd need to go home and medicate their younger boys immediately: "so that really frightened us, thinking the same thing was going to happen to them." A policeman drove them home. It was still dark.

When Toby woke up the following morning, his first question was "Where's Sam?" "I said Sam got very poorly last night, and we took him to the hospital, and the doctors tried to make him better, but they couldn't," whispers Rachel. "And I told him that he'd died. Our cat had died the week before so he understood that that meant he wasn't coming back."

"They take it very matter-of-factly at that age," adds Steve. "But what we did notice was that every time he walked past Sam's bedroom, he'd look in. He'd have a little look, just to see if he was there."

"And that was one of the hardest things, having Sam's room empty. Having to go past his room and it's empty, and his bed..." Rachel tails off.

Later that morning, the couple went back to Addenbrooke's to see Sam's body. "I felt a bit frightened at first," admits Rachel, "But I went in and sat next to him and read him a story.

"I think it was the right thing to do," adds Steve. "Going to see him made us realise that it wasn't him, it was a shell. He'd gone."

The first night without him was, says Rachel, "Awful. We slept in Sam's bed, just because we wanted to be near him."

"For the first few nights we weren't going to bed until 2 or 3 in the morning because we were up talking, just trying to work out what had happened."

It transpired that Sam had died of meningococcal septicaemia: the meningitis bacteria had poisoned his bloodstream. But they'll never know when or why he contracted it: one in 10 people carry the bacteria in their nose or throat harmlessly, but experts can't pinpoint why it becomes the full-blown disease in some people. "The consultant said it could just be that a child sneezed, and a droplet might have gone into his eye, and that's all it took," says Rachel.

Within a week, the couple were trying to get back into a routine for the sake of the younger boys. Not long afterwards, they moved Ben and Toby into Sam's room – it was what Toby wanted.

But while life gradually returned to normal, there were some situations that Rachel found unbearable.

"I couldn't go to Tesco for a year. I just couldn't face it, so Steve always went," she says. "I used to go with Sam, and to go there and not have him..."

Living close to the village primary school threw up more anguish, as Sam would have started there that year. "It was hard to see Sam's friends," says Rachel. "It still is, and it always will be."

"When Toby started school the year after, watching his nativity play was so hard because Sam's class were all there. I can sit and watch those things now and not cry, but I still look at those kids, and think 'there should be another one up there.'"

Rachel and Steve, who are both 40, went on to have two more children, Poppy, now 5, and Joe, 3. Yet not a day passes when they don't think of Sam, not least because both Ben and Joe look so much like him: "But in a way that's nice," says Rachel. "Sometimes one of them will do something, and you'll say 'ah, Sam used to do that' and it will make you smile."

On the sitting room wall are five clay plaques, each bearing a handprint and footprint with each of their children's names. But Sam's, Rachel explains, was done just after he died.

"I'd said to one of the counsellors at Addenbrooke's, almost in passing, that I'd really wanted to have it done, and now I couldn't." The counsellor asked Rachel for the leaflet, and rang the managing director: "and he said 'I'll come and do it myself', and he went to Addenbrooke's and did it."

Another way of keeping Sam's memory alive is by fundraising. Steve ran the London Marathon in 2007, and Rachel did the same earlier this year, in aid of the Meningitis Research Foundation.

"It took me a lot longer than I hoped because I injured my knee at eight miles," smiles Rachel. "The St John Ambulance said 'you will finish, but it will hurt, and it did! I hobbled a lot of it, which was a real shame, but I finished.'"

It's a lovely thing to have done in Sam's memory, but Steve and Rachel know that whatever happens, they'll always keep that memory alive.

"Poppy and Joe never knew Sam, and Ben didn't know him, but they all talk about him," says Rachel. "He's still part of our family. He always will be."

Spot the difference.

First turbines go up at wind farm

Changing skyline: the first wind turbine at Wadlow.

Picture: Keith Jones 830771.

COUNTRYSIDE is being "destroyed", says a protester, as the first 120m wind turbines went up at Wadlow Wind Farm.

The site is in picturesque West Wrating, between Haverhill and Cambridge.

The application for the site, which will generate 26 megawatts of energy a year, enough to supply 15,000 homes, was turned down twice by South Cambridgeshire District Council and was opposed by seven nearby parish councils.

Renewable energy firm RES was finally given the green light in November 2009 by a Government planning inspector and work on laying the foundations began last year.

West Wrating resident Robert Barlow was part of the campaign group Stop Wadlow Wind Farm, which raised £60,000 for its case against the turbines.

Mr Barlow said it was an "unfolding tragedy".

He added: "The idea that Wadlow Wind Farm is good for the environment is ludicrous. If you look at the devastation on the hill top, it's not going to even recover its own carbon footprint. It's just a disaster.

"They've destroyed one of the few remaining chalk pit areas in Cambridgeshire. This is a terrible day for Cambridgeshire countryside."

Sisse McCall, vice-chairman of West Wrating Parish Council, said: "It's very much a work in progress at the moment and I haven't heard many comments about it yet.

"You can see them from quite a wide area and there are some parts of the village, like near Green End Cottages, where you can see them from top to tail. The full impact will not be known until all 13 turbines are up and running."

Noel Breslin, RES construction site manager, said the first turbine going up was "a major milestone".

"It means that we are now just months away from being able to generate clean, green electricity that will help to secure a reliable, home-grown energy supply for the UK for years to come."

Three cars' wing mirrors damaged

WING mirrors were damaged on three cars parked in the same street overnight.

Police in Haverhill are appealing for information after damage was reported to vehicles parked in Ickleton Place between 5pm on Saturday, June 2 and 9.30am the next day.

The nearside wing mirror glass on a Vauxhall Astra van and a Ford Mondeo was smashed. The offside mirror on the Ford Mondeo was ripped off.

Clinton Cards saved

WORKERS at Haverhill's branch of Clinton Cards are celebrating after the shop was saved from closure.

Administrators have found a buyer for the troubled greetings card chain, which went into administration with its subsidiary Birthdays last month, threatening the future of 750 stores nationwide, and 4,500 jobs.

About 400 shops, picked by administrators Zolfo Cooper as commercially viable, have now been bought up by Lakeshore Lending Limited, a subsidiary of the American Greetings Corporation.

They include the Haverhill branch, two in Cambridge and shops in Ely, St Ives, St Neots, Huntingdon, Saffron Walden, and Haverhill.

However, the Newmarket store, in The Guineas, is still in the melting pot. It is on a list of stores still under the control of the administrators, Zolfo Cooper, for which the firm is trying to find a buyer or buyers.

Lakeshore Lending Ltd has not yet spelled out its intentions for the shops it has bought, but a spokesman for Zolfo Cooper said: "The administrators took the decision to announce a nationwide store closure programme on May 16, creating a core estate of approximately 400 stores.

"This core estate supports a viable business and is significantly better placed to operate in today's challenging market.

"The sale comprises the brands and assets of Clinton Cards, including 397 stores contributing approximately £212m in annual revenues, and will preserve approximately 4,500 jobs across the UK."

Peter Saville, joint administrator and partner at Zolfo Cooper said: "We have always been of the view that despite an intensely competitive retail environment, and what proved to be excessively ambitious expansion plans in recent years, there was a strong underlying business contained within Clinton Cards.

"We would like to thank the staff for their dedication and patience throughout what has been an understandably difficult time for all concerned and we wish both them and the new owners of the business every success for the future."

Films are my new Plan A

BEN Drew is looking forward to some time off. Lighting a cigarette, he says: "I've been working every day in the last few years, so it doesn't leave much time for life. I think I'm starting to burn out now. So after this, I'm going to have a break."

Yet with an upcoming leading role in The Sweeney opposite Ray Winstone, and a list of summer festival appearances and outdoor shows, including Thetford Forest this Friday, the 28-year-old – better known as rap alter ego Plan B – knows free time is a luxury. "I'm dreading these shows," he admits, "because of the amount of preparation that goes into making sure I perform at the level I always have. I hate not having time to get things right, because you have to put things out that you're not 100 per cent happy with."

Plan B fans will be aware that the rapper has gradually been moving away from music into film, with roles in Adulthood, 4.3.2.1 and Harry Brown, in between releasing his critically-acclaimed soul album, The Defamation Of Strickland Banks. He's now taken the next step by making his directorial debut with iLL Manors, which opened in cinemas last week (an album soundtrack of the same name will be released in July).

As he prepares to play Thetford Forest this week, Ben Drew tells SHEREEN LOW why he's desperate for a rest - if only his successful music and film career didn't keep getting in the way...

"It's the hardest thing I've ever done in my life," he admits. "That was because I didn't have the financial support I needed, and people doubt you, so you have to deal with that. It's pretty tough."

Based on "a collection of stories which me or friends have experienced" in east London, the hard-hitting, gritty thriller is not easy watch, although its provocative nature has won Drew the label of "the mouthpiece of a generation". It has been praised by fellow musicians Ed Sheeran, Professor Green and Tinie Tempah.

"The majority of the white population in this country don't even believe this environment or these people actually exist. They think it's just an exaggeration but it's not. There's no way I can fictionalise that," he insists.

Citing Quentin Tarantino and Nicolas Winding Refn as his inspiration, Drew's film has been criticised for glorifying violence, but he insists: "I know some of the scenes will shock some people. But nothing is included for shock value – every event is crucial to the story."

Drew was inspired to write the iLL Manors single after last summer's looting and rioting. The song has been hailed by MPs and Drew's stance has been praised.

"I genuinely want to change things and I feel like this is just the first step. I am an angry white rapper but I'm not just that. People think I don't care, but I do," he adds.

Drew admits the big screen is his calling and plans to incorporate music within movies.

"I didn't do this as a one-off thing. I want to make films and be a director. I saw this as my calling card, but also it allowed me to talk about this issue."

"My hip-hop music is not really for commercial radio, so I felt like if I had a different kind of medium where it could live, I don't have to water it down or compromise. I thought film would be the perfect place."

There are reports that his next film will be about the city's Kurdish community, but Drew says: "I might need a break from all this political stuff. I might make a comedy. It depends on how I feel."

■ Plan B, High Lodge, Thetford Forest, nr Brandon, Friday, June 15. Tickets are £29.50, available from the Forestry Commission box office on 03000 680400 or online at www.forestry.gov.uk/music

Book early for next year's concerts

THE thunderous applause at the end of this year's Cambridge Corn Exchange Classical Concert Series was proof – if proof were needed – of how popular the series has been.

And to meet the expected high public demand for tickets, the Corn Exchange has put next year's series on sale earlier than usual. Supported by our sister paper the Cambridge News, and sponsored by Elms Cambridge BMW, all concerts within the 2012/13 series are now on sale.

The series opens on October 26 with a visit from the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, whose two concerts in this year's series sold out completely. On November 13, the prestigious Prague Symphony Orchestra will delight audiences with a programme which includes Dvorak's timeless Symphony No. 8.

The RPO returns on January 24 with a concert which culminates in a stirring performance of Beethoven's Symphony No 6 ('The Pastoral').

Tickets for the 2012/13 Cambridge Classical Concert series can now be booked from (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

Comedy stars set for festival

AS the country's comedy acts gear up for the Edinburgh Festival, many of them will be making their way to Cambridge by way of a warm-up.

Cambridge Comedy Festival features 40 shows in six days and includes some of the world's finest acts, including arch mistress of deadpan delivery Shappi Khorsandi, right, and Never Mind the Buzzcocks captain and stand-up returnee Phill Jupitus.

Also on the bill is the rarely-shy Richard Herring, whose new show (following Christ on a Bike and Hillier Moustache) sets out to expose the truth about 'manly bits'.

Meanwhile, Adam (minus Joe) Buxton's new show, BUG, gets its debut, while other names to look out for include Hal Cruttenden, Mat Ricardo, Matthew Crosby, Paul Chowdhry, Simon Evans, Andrew Lawrence and Josh Widdicombe.

With tickets starting from £5, it's a rare opportunity to see some of the biggest names in comedy and best emerging new talent, plus some great children's shows, in an intimate venue.

The big film

RED LIGHTS
Certificate 15, 1h 53m

SEEING is deceiving. Look beyond the obvious and you might glimpse writer-director Rodrigo Cortes' sleights of hand in this intriguing thriller, which follows two paranormal investigators as they debunk fraudulent mediums, mind readers and ghost hunters through the appliance of science.

Savvy audiences who enthusiastically devoured The Sixth Sense and its supernatural kin will enjoy piecing together the puzzle while searching for clues in nervous glances and ominous silences between the characters.

Dr Margaret Matheson (Sigourney Weaver) has devoted her life to probing paranormal phenomena and exposing the trickery behind supposedly wondrous occurrences. Flanked by her trusty assistant Tom Buckley (Cillian Murphy), she travels the world, discovering the simple truth behind a haunted house and exposing a spirit guide called Palladino (Leonardo Sbaraglia) as a charlatan.

She shares her experiences by lecturing university students including Sally (Elizabeth Olsen) and Ben (Craig Roberts), but Margaret's unerring scepticism pits her against Professor Paul Shackleton (Toby Jones), who believes science cannot explain everything.

Out of the blue the investigator's great adversary – spoon-bending blind psychic Simon Silver (Robert De Niro) – comes out of retirement and embarks on a lucrative theatre tour with his agent Monica Handsen (Joely Richardson).

Tom feels passionately that Margaret should debunk Silver but she urges caution. But the closer he strays towards Silver the more powerful the blind psychic becomes, putting the paranormal investigators on a collision course with disaster.

The problem with Red Lights is that it promises far more than it delivers, turning a narrative screw for the opening 45 minutes that teasingly hints at invisible, dark forces at work in a bustling metropolis.

Thinking Biggs to help with growing pains

AS more people continue to grow their own, there should be no shortage of takers for Matthew Biggs's advice sessions at this year's BBC Gardeners' World Live event at Birmingham's NEC.

Biggs, a regular panellist on BBC Radio 4's Gardeners' Question Time, says that the cold, wet weather of late spring shouldn't hamper crops too much, although germination will have been slower.

"Depending on the soil type you have, the cold, wet weather early on will mean that the soil will have warmed up very slowly, particularly clay which gets waterlogged. It has slowed the season down."

"A lot of people sowed and planted early. Many won't have had the germination at the time. But now everything should be germinating quickly."

Seeds sown early may have ended up waterlogged and rotting, or germination will have

by Hannah Stephenson been erratic. But it's not necessarily too late for a second sowing, he says.

"What happens is that seeds can germinate in a matter of days in warm weather. You can catch up and redress the balance."

The period of warm weather in late March and early April may have led to seeds germinating, but the cooler temperatures later in spring probably hampered their growth, or they may have succumbed to frost.

"Beetroot, radishes and early carrots are generally pretty hardy, but the cold can affect anything planted during the cooler, wetter period. In fluctuating temperatures, beetroot are inclined to bolt."

Tomatoes, runner beans and courgettes shouldn't be planted out until all risk of frost has passed, so savvy gardeners will have kept them indoors throughout the cold, wet spell but should be quite safe to plant them outdoors now.

"The key rule with planting out is to go by the weather, not what it says on the label. It may say, 'Sow from March to May', but if in March the ground's waterlogged or freezing, ignore that advice."

"Weather conditions dictate when you should sow. Instructions on the packet are more of a guideline."

Tomatoes are susceptible to weather-related diseases such as blight, which is related to periods of warmth and humidity at the end of June.

"There are some varieties such as 'Ferline' and 'Shirley' that have some resistance, but it is only resistance and you can still get walloped. It's more of a problem in wet weather," Biggs says.

"Leaf mould can also be a weather-related problem, while splitting and cracking are cultural problems, caused by erratic watering, as is blossom end rot."

For those growing tomatoes in large pots outdoors, ideally use a multi-purpose compost with added John Innes, which is a heavier, more moisture-retentive compost, he advises.

Grafted tomatoes may also be more resistant to disease, producing heavy crops early on because of their natural vigour.

Those who have sown crops later because of bad weather will have later harvests, he says, but if we now have consistently warm temperatures, they will catch up.

■ Matthew Biggs will be hosting Grow Your Own Garden at BBC Gardeners' World Live, June 13-17, at the NEC Birmingham. The show will also feature Monty Don, Alan Titchmarsh, Carol Klein and other gardening favourites. For more information, visit www.bbcgardenersworldlive.com or phone 0844 581 1340.

GOOD ADVICE: Matthew Biggs is appearing at Gardeners' World Live next week.

Narrow defeat for battling B team

HAVERHILL Men's B team put up a fine effort in a match against Wickham Bishops in the Halstead & District League, Division Three, but lost out by four sets to five.

The highlight and final play of the match, with the light fading fast, was the tie-break victory from 2-5 down by Ken Hurrell and his young partner Tom Marsh.

Marsh's excellent style and strokeplay were accompanied by surprising maturity from such a young player, controlling the urge to attempt to blast winners every shot.

Hurrell had his fair share of success, playing some sharp volleys and effective slices off both wings.

Captain Ian Terry and regular partner Stuart Read had a slow start against the same pair and went on to lose a very tight first set.

They then came back to form with some of their best tennis of the season so far in a 6-0 victory in their next rubber.

In only his second league match, Stuart Hamilton and partner Ray Goddard were unable to sustain enough rallies to win any of their sets.

■ Haverhill men's A team beat Sudbury A 6-3 at home in the Halstead League, Division One.

James Booth and Jake Warner won all three of their rubbers 6-3.

Adam Fowle and Nigel Fitch lost 3-6, and won 6-4, 6-3. Robert Jeffs and Per Strid lost 6-7, 2-6 and won 7-6.

>> Football

THURLOW are looking for new players for their under-13 team for the forthcoming season.

Players need to be currently in school Year 7. The team compete in Division A of the Cambridgeshire & District Colts League.

Leader: Gary Paffett is top of the drivers' standings in the German Touring Car Masters.

Consistent Paffett increases his lead

► Motorsport

GARY Paffett made it four podium finishes out of four races and extended his lead in the German Touring Car Masters (DTM) with a third-place finish at the Red Bull Ring.

A retirement for BMW title rival Bruno Spengler and a fifth-place finish for Mercedes HWA team-mate Jamie Green ensured the Haverhill driver extended his lead in the drivers' standings to 36 points.

But an eventful race in Spielberg, Austria, was anything but plain sailing.

Paffett did well to avoid most of the shunts and bumps that seemed to occur all the way down the field, but having qualified in second behind eventual race winner Edoardo Mortara, he slipped down to third after the second round of pitstops saw Denmark's Martin Tomczyk take the lead in his BMW M3.

Tomczyk eventually lost out to Mortara's Audi A5, while Paffett, having run on to the grass during an earlier battle for the lead with the Italian, had been forced to back off due to grass clippings restricting the air intake and preventing his Mercedes C-Coupe's engine from cooling sufficiently.

"The race was really exciting," said Paffett.

"Of course, my final position could have been better, but that's racing. I've extended my lead in the championship and that's what counts.

"The scraps were sometimes quite tough going and by the end of the race, my radiator was totally clogged up with grass. Nevertheless, I'm very pleased with my four podium finishes."

Paffett leads the championship with 83 points, with Mattias Ekström second on 47. Green is third with 44.

► Cricket round-up

Trio hit 50s to set up win

THREE half-centuries ensured Haverhill got the bragging rights as they beat Lakenheath by 84 runs in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

Haverhill captain Simon Youngs lost the toss but made 51 at the top of the order and Nigel Brunning (53) and Anthony Phillips (50) also batted well, with Sam Bowers, Timothy Milner and Paul Pallant taking two wickets apiece.

Lakenheath recovered from a poor start thanks to Pallant (19) and Shane Leech (24) putting on 52, but they were limited to 127 for 9. Brunning took 3 for 41.

Haverhill II remain unbeaten in Division Six after beating Braintree II at home.

Haverhill batted first and posted 209 for 7, with Sam Hartshorn scoring 79 and Phil Jones 45.

In reply, the visitors made 120 for 6, with Joey Kettle taking 5 for 22 off 10 overs.

Weston Colville suffered an 83-run defeat against Abington in Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

Abington batted first and were reduced to 87 for 6 at one stage but they eventually reached 148 for 8. Weston Colville skipper Adie Westley was the pick of the bowlers with 4 for 47.

In reply, Adam Taylor's knock of 20 was the only innings of note as Weston Colville were bundled out for 65.

■ Martin Farrant set Horseheath on their way to a four-wicket win at home to Cambridge St Giles in Mr Cricket CCA Senior League, Division One.

The opener composed a knock of 69 before Martin Giles (21 not out) and Jason Ketteridge (13 not out) got the hosts to 144 for 6 with four overs remaining.

St Giles had previously totalled 143 for 8, with Giles taking 3 for 32 from 12 overs.
